“Mom, do you think that I can go to school without guidance of anybody?” asked Bwiza.

“ Bwiza, why do you ask such a question?” asked her mother.

“I want to be able to do some tasks by myself.” She replied. Her mother was very happy to hear such words, she said, “Ok, could you please bring the tomatoes that are on the table in the house?”

Bwiza smiled and stood up with her white cane and went toward the door. She knew in her mind the location of everything in the house.

Shortly after, Bwiza come back with the sack of tomatoes in her right hand. Her mother was so surprised when she saw her, she said, “How did you know that they are in the sack as far as I didn’t indicate you.

“Tomatoes are always in the sack.” Answered Bwiza. They all smiled.

“Will you then let me go to school alone?” asked Bwiza. “Not at all. I won’t do such a thing.” Said her mother while shaking her hand.

“Nothing bad will happen to me, I ensure you. I have in my heart the way to school.” Persisted Bwiza.

“Never will I do that.” Said her mother.

“Give me the chance to try.” Insisted Bwiza.

Her mother was not adamant, she said, “Ok, but I will go with you.”

Make sure you won't guide me like a child." Bwiza conditioned her mother.

The next day was my first day to go to school without guidance of anybody.

My mother was so worried that he even asked people to leave the place for me.

She even removed the stones and put them on the side off my path.

I was smiling while walking. It wasn't easy but I got there anyway.

My objective was attained; it was to be able to go to school without any guidance.
